

"Baby Geese"

Dad and I are at the lake. It is a very nice day.

We see a mother goose. She is white.

She is swimming in the lake.

What are those yellow things behind her?

One, two, three, four, five! Her baby geese!

The baby geese are following their mother.

She will keep them safe.

The mother goose and her baby geese swim across the lake together.

"What a beautiful family of geese!"

My dad takes a picture of them.

"A Bird That Cannot Fly?"

Most birds fly. But not all birds.

Do you know the ostrich? It's the biggest bird on the Earth. It stands three metres tall and is 150 kilograms in weight. Yes, an ostrich is a bird, but it cannot fly.

Why can't it fly? Its wings are too small. It does not need to fly. It can run fast. It runs 60 kilometres per hour. That's fast!

Who needs to fly when you can run that fast?
